Meg O'Grady is senior leader with 25 years of experience developing and leading a broad spectrum of quality-of-life programs for servicemembers, veterans, and their families in both the government and in the private sector. As vice president of Military and Public Sector Solutions for Kaplan University, she leads a team that helps servicemembers, military spouses, and government organizations reach important milestones in their education and careers.

Prior to joining Kaplan University, Meg served as the vice president of Veteran Business Strategy and Engagement at the First Data Corporation. There she led a team of professionals that developed and launched the Coalition for Veteran Business, a coalition of Fortune 500 industry leaders committed to providing innovative solutions and thought leadership to grow and support veteran-owned businesses in communities throughout the nation. Meg holds a Master of Education degree from National Louis University.
